Township Register

49 YEARS OLD — FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1937 — NO. 34

AROUND the TOWNSHIP

A small sedan has been parked in front of the Register office for six days and nights. We don't know who owns it as there is no registration certificate in it. We take this means of pointing out to the owner that there is a county ordinance against parking on the highway all night. We also point out that Lily, the lady goat whose dining room is just across the street, has been watching the car with a hungry look in her eye.

* * *

Joe Ferry, whom we featured in this column last week, has a pair of shoes which he bought from H. L. Scott back in 1917. Says they are the best shoes he ever owned and he still wears them for Sunday. Says Scott didn't lose by the deal because he buys one new pair each year anyway just as a matter of principle.

* * *

The one time we met Ad Schuster, he seemed like a peaceable citizen; but we are expecting any day to hear that he has murdered one of the Tribune's printers. In Tuesday's column Schuster was defending Chinese-American citizens by mentioning all the things they have done for their adopted country in the way of purchasing Liberty bonds and supporting the "Communist" chest.

* * *

The only thing that can keep Schuster from murder will be the mature reflection that this is a complex world in which a lot of things sound like a lot of other things. Personally, we don't blame the printer much.

* * *

Congressman Carter or someone else has included Niles in the list of towns which will be considered for a new federal building. In Niles, about the only federal government activity is the postal service. Dispatches from Washington state that final decision on Niles has not yet been made.

* * *

Last week we printed an item about the heat bursting thermometers at Decoto. This week we learned from Dr. Grau that he had treated a sunstroke case from Niles canyon.

Lions Hear Speaker, Give Facts On Incorporation

CENTERVILLE.—Consideration of the report on incorporation of Centerville occupied the attention of the Lions Club Tuesday night. E. B. Hodges was chairman ant introduced a speaker from the University of California who discussed advantages and disadvantages of incorporation of cities of the Sixth Class. He stated that the only disadvantage was the cost and that depended upon how much the district valued the advantages which he listed mainly as better police protection, building control, city planning, lighting, health control and general city regulations

He stated that he believed the southern end of the Bay region and the peninsular were slated for the biggest development of any section of the country during the next 20 years.

The Lions Club emphasized the fact that it was not sponsoring incorporation but was merely acting as a fact finding committee to ascertain the possibilities of such a step and to find out the wishes of the taxpayers in regard to same. The committee was instructed to find out further information regarding possible income, costs and possible tax rate.

The proposed limits of incorporated area would reach to the high school property on the south, to a line across the Stevenson property on the north, the middle of the Soares ranch on Fremont avenue, the Kolb ranch on Thornton, the middle of the Norris ranch on Central and the cannery on Baine avenue. The estimated assessed valuation is $704,000.

To hold an election to incorporate it will be necessary to present a petition bearing the names of 25 percent of the taxpayers, representing 25 per cent of the total assessed valuation.

The club also voted to have a barbecue and ladies night at Linda Vista Park on September 14, with Harold DeLeon named as chairman and to give a dance at the Swiss Park on Dec. 4. Motion pictures of the recent fair were shown.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY GOES INTO ACTION AT THOMPSON TRIAL

NILES.—Bringing to a close a long series of postponed hearings and continuances, Louis T. Thompson, employee of an alleged house of ill fame at Alvarado, was found guilty by Judge J. A. Silva at Friday's session of the justice court. Judgment was suspended. Witnesses testifying included Thompson, Deputy Sheriff Wallace Ebright and Louis Miller of Alvarado. The defense was represented by Leo Sullivan, Oakland attorney, and the prosecution by Deputy Sheriff Stanley Smallwood.

As seems customary when big city lawyers appear in small town courts there was a great deal of striding around and loud talking on the part of Sullivan. He indulged in numerous personalities, stating that he had lived through "seventeen long bitter years of listening to a lot of conversation" from deputy district attorneys. He claimed that theye were a "lot of Indians and getting a man's scalp was the only thing that mattered." He accused Smallwood of indulging in a "Niagara of words" instead of correctly quoting the law and hinted that if the judge failed to uphold his objection to the inclusion of a letter as efidence that there were higher courts of appeal. The main argument arose over a letter said to have been taken from Thompson in which Peggy Armstrong of Sacramento, who had previously pleaded guilty to a charge of working in the house, wrote in such a manner as to acquaint Thompson with the character of the house in which he was working and thereby proving that he had knowledge of the character of the place in which he was employed.

ACTION WANTED

The Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce has mailed letters to 24 bay service and commercial clubs asking them to petition state officials for speed in ending the ban on commercial traffic through Niles canyon.

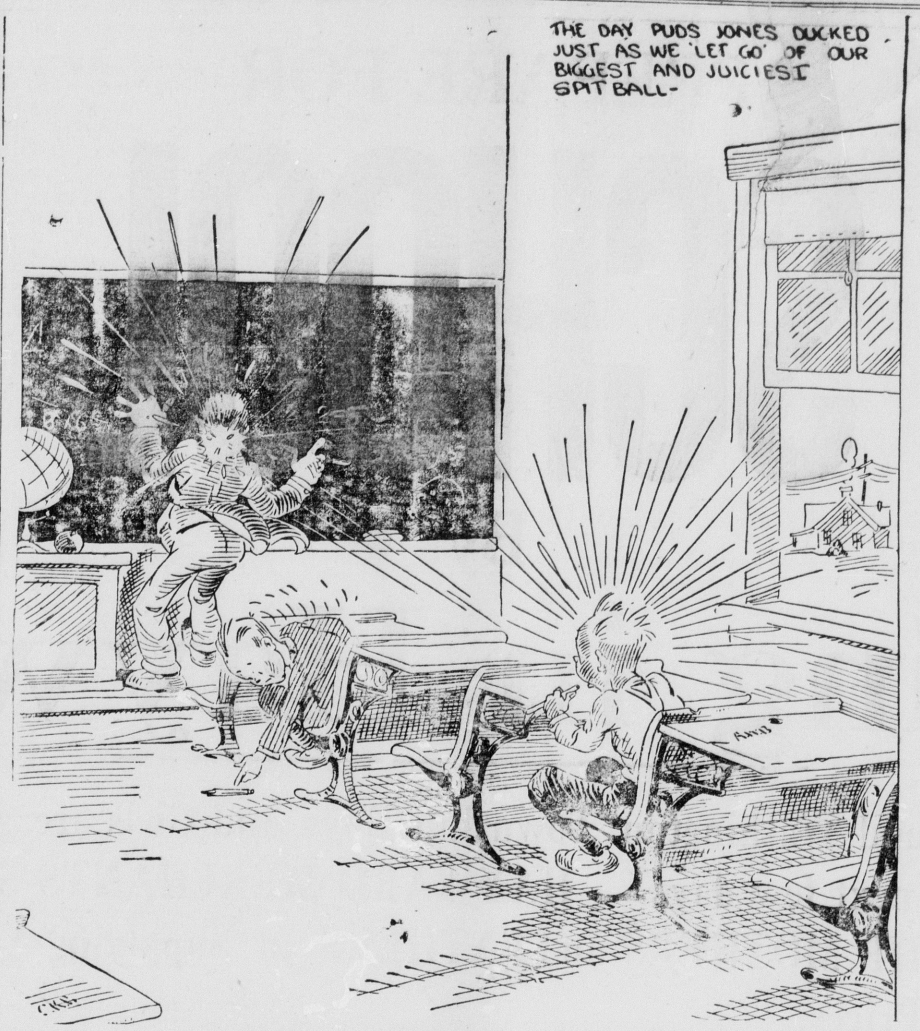

Two comparatively insignificant bridges are causing more havoc to local industry than has been seen around here in many a day. Normally laden trucks which have depended on the canyon road for passage from the San Joaquin and Livermore valleys to San Jose and peninsula points must either buck the traffic through Hayward or use the dangerous turns and grades of the Mission pass.

The added cost in time and gasoline is tremendous and, if the situation continues, will cause serious loss of business.

It is time for the state highway authorities to get busy.

There is mounting criticism in all parts of the state for the high-handed tactics of the state commission in all road matters. The commission's job is to make the roads of this state serviceable for those who pay for them.

The commission seems to spend most of its time forgetting that fact.

City Life

It is to be hoped that the people who produced the works on display these days at the San Francisco art museum had their tongues in their cheeks while they worked. The thought that there are some who take the stuff seriously is oppressive.

The exhibit is billed as an exhibition of Fantastic Art, Dada and Surrealism.

According to many critics, a good painting is one in which the artist puts on canvas, his view of the things he sees in the world. If he sees in colors and designs which have not been apparent to the common run people, his works have the charm and force of a new discovery. But good art ,whether it shows a new viewpoint, an old viewpoint or a modification of an old viewpoint, if it is of any value must be- mature and developed with some care.

The pictures in San Francisco which were made by spilling ink on paper certainly don't qualify.

A good portion of the exhibit developed the "history" of the fantastic movement. An attempt is made to trace these modern effusions back to Edward Lear, Lewis Carroll and the engravings of 16th century, Dutch and Flemish artists. This is all poppycock. Lea and Carroll would turn over in their graves if they knew the use to which their drawings were being put.

The early draustmen who drew pictures of evil spirits believe in such things. Their pictures are analagous to modern photographs of ectoplasm.

The shrewdest and most readable criticism of the San Francisco show is probably that of H. L. Dungan in last Sunday's Oakland Tribune.

After viewing the exhibit, Duncan recalled the time he had paid ten cents to see an ossified man and the tlme a young fellow showed him six boils on the back of his neck. They were nice boils, opined Mr. Duncan"But I don't want to see them again."

COMEDIANS DUE AT THEATRE

NILES. — Jack Haley, Eugene Pallette and Arthur Treacher, are all trusty comedians who will contribute to the enjoyment of Niles theater-goers tonight and Saturday in "She Had To Eat."

All of them are known as 'type comedians" with a gift of adding their own personalities to the roles they play in the cinema. Haley, a comparative newcomer, will be a favorite long after other, better looking singing comedians have been forgotten.

Second feature on the bill is Dick Foran in "Blazing Guns."

Outstanding movie of the week at Niles will be 'Slim," featuring Pat O'Brien and Henry Fonda. It greater degree of verisimiltude lines and it is presented with a greater degree of verisimiltudt than most movies of the occupational sort.

'OBrien, since he first entered the movies via the "Front Page," has risen steadily in popularity.He and Spencer Tracy are much the same sort of actors. Both are shy of the stuff that makes matinee idols; but both succeed through sheer intelligence and care in selecting the movie they appar in.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday will see "New Faces of 1937," which theater manager Bill Helm says is better than the average movie revue.

The Bay section councils are planning to organize a soft ball league with inter-council meets.

RULING MADE IN SLOAN FARM SUIT

IRVINGTON. — According to a notice in a metropolitan paper, the W. A. and Elizabeth Sloan suit, involving the Frazier-Lemke Act, has ended after many months of conciliation commissioner for Condecision of its kind under the Act referred to, to be given by John L. Garaventa of Concord, Federal consiliation commissioner for Contra Costa County.

Under the act debtors in farm mortgages must pay a reasonable annual rent, Garaventa, who was assigned to the case here by the supervising conciliation commissioner, said. Deductions may be made from the rent for payment of taxes, insurance and upkeep of property. The balance must go to creditors.

In the case of W. A. and Elizabeth Sloan, here, who filed under the act, an attempt was being made to deduct other money for expenses harvesting costs, labor expended and other non-permanent activities. Garavanta said. The point in question was as to just how much deduction the debtors were entitled to make for 'upkeep."

The commissioner ruled that deduction could be made for taxes, insurance on buildings and the cost of leveling a part of the land which was adjudged a permanent improvement. Deduction for harvesting, labor and other seasonal work was denied.

NEWARK LOSES CLOSE GAME

NEWARK. — The Newark Merchants fell down on their winning streak last Sunday when they were defeated by the Oakland Colored Giants by a score of 8 to 6.

The Newark Merchants up to date have won seven, lost six, and have played a tie ball game. So they have a fair average.

Ashton and Frank Mederios allowed 11 hits, while Collins and Halloway for Oakland allowed 9 hits.

The star hitters for Newark were: Clarence Soito who pinched hit in the ninth inning, and came through with a screaming double down the first base line. Ed. Rose got a triple out of three tries. Amaral got a double out of four tries, and Ashton got one for one. The only bball players that didn't get any hits were: Peter and Tony Rivers, and Frank Mederios.

Boosting Frank Mederios

Frank Mederios from the Alviso district, and who played baseball for Newark last Sunday told the ball players he was leaving for Saint Marys College this week. So long, Frank! We hate to see you go!
